Playdate at Civic For Pete Fountain

Pete Fountain, the bearded clarinet maestro, will shortly leave this Bourbon St. Aerie, down New Orleans way, to keep a playdate Saturday night, March 18, at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium.

Fountain will bring his famous Dixieland Jazz Quintet to the Bay City concert hall as the headline act in an all-star modern music festival.

Having grown up musically among bistros along New Orleans' Basin and Bourbon Streets, Fountain was one of those young musicians who helped bring back Dixieland. Following a decade away from his home city establishing a national reputation, he returned 2 years ago to settle down as a steady attraction in one of the Creole city's better nightspots.

Fountain leaves New Orleans twice a year to make recordings in Hollywood. His March 18 date in Santa Monica coincides with his latest waxing session.

APHIS
Our friend, the aphid, has a knack for sneaking up on roses when the latter are pushing out tender new growth. And since roses will be doing this soon, it pays the gardener to keep a sharp eye out for invaders. Haul out the spray gun at the first sign of aphid and fire at will. Do it on a windless day for best results.

GERANIUMS
Geraniums, when you grow them in pots, should be moved up to larger pots as the plants increase in size during the growing season. Young plants that you start with from nurseries this month, will be ready for graduating when you can see a root ball full of new roots (gently tap the root ball from the pot to inspect it). Potted Geraniums are better for daily watering than for occasional drought, so see that they don't dry out.

His colorful background includes tours in England and Canada, recordings with British RCA. He played over one thousand solo broadcasts on BBC and in 1947 had the unusual honor of being rated by public poll as the most popular organist in England.
